DETAILED ACTION
Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of claims 1-8 in the reply filed on 10/08/08 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Diner et al. (US pub 20040063915).

With respect to claim 1, Diner et al. teach a contact fabric using a heterostructure of metal/semiconductor or polymer nanorods, the contact fabric comprising:
semiconductor nanorods grown on a predetermined base material; and metal deposited on predetermined portions of the semiconductor nanorods, wherein there is a low contact resistance ohmic characteristic or a rectifying Schottky characteristic between the nanorods and the metal depending on characteristics of interfaces between the nanorods and the metal and depending on the difference between work functions. See abstract and associated text.

With respect to claim 2, Diner et al. further teach the nanorods and the contact fabric have a diameter less than 500 nm. See the abstract.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Diner et al. (US pub 20040063915).

With respect to claim 2, Diner et al. teach the contact fabric can be used in an integrated circuit or a nano-system but fail to teach the contact fabric can be used in a diode, a transistor, an optical detecting device, a LED, a sensor, and an array circuit.

However, since the Diner et al. teach the metallized semiconductor nanorod has reduced resistivity (see the abstract), It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art of making semiconductor devices to apply the metallized semiconductor nanorod in a diode, a transistor, an optical detecting device, a LED, a sensor, an array circuit to enhance conduction.

With respect to claim 4, Diner et al. teach the nanorod is a semiconductor made of polymer but fail to teach the semiconductor is silicon.

However, It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art of making semiconductor devices to use silicon instead of polymer since silicon is widely used and much cheaper.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5, 6, 7, and 8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
